COUNTY SHOULD RESPOND ENCE

J. A. GRAHAM, CENSUS SUPERVISOR SURPRISED AT

COLUMBIA State Historical Society

ONE-HALF STILL LACKING

Nodaway County is the Only One in the District to Fail to Answer Calls for Enumerators.

"I am surprised and chagrined at the failure of the people of Nodaway county to respond to the Government's call for enumerator's for the various townships of Nodaway county," writes Joshua A. Graham census supervisor of this congressional district, to the Democrat-Forum.

Continuing, Mr. Graham says:

"To date your county is not half filled and no applications have been received from the following districts:

Atchison township, north and south half.
Grant, south half.
Green, east and west half.
Hughes, east and west half.
Independence, north half.
Jefferson, whole township.
Lincoln, north and south.
Polk township, 3 districts
White Cloud, south half.

"This comprises over one half of your county, and in all the other counties of the Fourth congressional district a spirited response has been made and enumerators have qualified for practically all the townships of those counties. I cannot help feeling that the question of the 14th Dicennial census has not been properly brought to publi cattention in your county. Every merchant, banker, trader and professional man should make an individual pride, as well as a commercial interest in seeing that a proper census is made of your county. It is necesary to the national government that it take a dicennial inventory of its resources and man power, and it should be of local interest to every merchant, bankers, farmers and business man generally that values be tabulated and population enumerated, and this information to be of any value should be accurate and reliable. Required qualifications in enumerators are not so high but what any good citizen can qualify. A simple test is required of a person applying for enumerator, in which he fills out a form schedule, the same kind of schedule that he would fill out were he to go into the district and perform his enumerative duties. There is no additional test in the way of grammar, arithmetic, or other educational test, but that the enumerator should be acquainted with conditions in his locality and with the people whom he enumerates.

The remuneration allowed in the townships specified above is from 2½ to 3 cents for each inhabitant, 22½ to 25 cents for each farm, 30 cents for each establishment of productive industry, 27½ to 35 cents for each irrigation project, 27½ to 35 cents for each drainage system, and 10 cents for barns and enclosures containing live stock not on farms. It may be seen that an enumerator by hustling may make from $4 to $10 a day, depending entirely upon his own energies.

"The time is very short from now until the time enumeration begins, and it is therefore urgently necessary that these people make application at once in order to qualify them, send their names to Washington and get the material for their work to them by the 1st of January."

Application blanks and test schedules can be had at the office of secretary George A. Pickens of the Chamber of Commerce.

The local back field is considered as one of the best working quartets in the conference and can always be depended upon for good gains. Score cards have been printed and are to be sold at the field so that you will be able to tell each player. The game will be called at 3 o'clock.

THANKSGIVING NIGHT SERVICE AT FIRST CHRISTIAN REVIVAL

Pastor and Family Drive to Meeting Last Night Sermon Tonight "The Two Confederates"

The revival service at the First Christian church will continue on Thanksgiving night as usual with sermon by the Rev. R. E. Snodgrass and with a special musical program.

There will be no day meetings tomorrow on account of the morning Thanksgiving service at the First Methodist church. The cottage prayer services will be held Friday afternoon.

The sermon tonight will be upon the subject "The Two Confessions" The Rev. R. C. Snodgrass, accompanied by Mrs. Snodgrass and her parents drove from Clarinda, Ia., last night to attend the service.

The sermon subject last night was "Repentance" and the pastor said in part.

"The text is taken from the 13th chapter of Luke, 'Except Ye repent ye shall all in like manner perish'. This was spoken to a band of renegade Jews who were all the time looking upon the sins of some one else. Many people are like that today. It is easy to find sin in the other fellow. Many are paying more attention to the life the other fellow is living than he does to his own living. There are thousands who expect to be saved because of their wife's religion. He leaves it to the wife and mother to do all the praying and all the religious training of the children. But husbands and father must understand that they are just as responsible for the spiritual welfare of their children as are the mothers, and they must meet that paternal responsibility."

Concerning death bed repentance the following was said:

"Paul says, 'Sorrow of this world worketh death,' and let me remark here that this is the kind of sorrow that is manifest on nine tenths of the dying beds, where the mercies of God are implored. How many folks you have known in Maryville who carelesly and indifferently threw away their talents, their responsibilities and their obligations to their savior and then come down to what they thought was their dying beds, and with a heart breaking in sorrow for their sins, from their pale lips piteously cried for God's mercy and then vowed by every thing mortal and eternal that if God would only restore them to life, they would lead a better life become a Christian and do all they could for Christ's cause, and you have seen these people get well, regain their health, forget their promises and as usual never darken a church door except at a funeral. I want it understood that if that fellow had died he would have met with eternal death for it was simply a sorrow of this world. A man to be ashamed of himself to throw away his health, his strength, his hardihood and his all to the service of the Devil and then come down to his dying hour and present Jesus Christ the dying moan and death jerk of skin and bones. Jesus Christ gave a strong vigorous body to die for us and we ought to give the same kind for him."

YEARLY REPORT OF WELFARE BOARD

GENERAL HIGH PRICES PORTEND INCREASED WOIRK THIS WINTER

CHURCH PLAN SUGGESTED

Could Arrange to Give Monthly Fixed Amount, Continuance of Strike Will Result in Much Need.

The continuance of the coal strike and the general high prices portend a busy winter for the city welfare board. These conditions will cause many to require aid who ordinarily could be self supporting and in the report of F. P. Robinson, chairman of the board, he suggests that each church arrange to pay a monthly amount to the board for the next six months to alleviate these conditions.

The following is the report of the board for the year ending November 1

Repayment of money borrowed from First Natl Bank, in payment of loans.	120.00
Total disbursements	$1536.11

Explanatory

The item of $10.00 loaned was advanced from the board's fund to the head of a family, whose health would not permit him to work in winter in this climate, and the loan enabled him to reach a southern city where he worked all winter and sent back money to repay the loan and support his family.

The item of $195.00 borrowed from First Natl. bank, was borrowed to tide over when we had no funds available and demands were urgent.

An examination of the above report discloses that $75.00 of above amount is still owing to the bank, as we have never been able to get enough funds ahead to meet it.

It would, of course, be unwise and unkind to name in a report of this kind those who have been aided by the board, but the pastor of any church in the city may secure this information in detail from the chairman.

A Summary of the Work Done

There were seventeen families who received assistance in way of fuel and provisions. These families ocmprised sixty-eight persons, of whom 29 were adults and 40 children.

One family was a mother and two small children, who were abandoned by the father while both children were sick, and they were helped till the children recovered and the mother was aple to support them.

Three of those helped were very old and infirm women, without any means of support.

One family consisted of a very old couple, the wife being sick and the husband unable to leave her to da any work whatever.

The balance were families having many children and unable to make of whose family having the flu and were people who had never been helped before and will probaby never have to be assisted again.

In addition to above, we distributed a great quantity of good second hand clothing to the above people, and many others not included in the above figures.

The Outlook.

As far as we know at present, there are about 15 families in town who will likely have to be assisted to a connay unusual sickness, the continuance of the coal strikes and general high prices may result in great numbers needing help who are ordinarily self supporting.

We have on hand a considerable quantity of serviceable, second hand clothing, but have no funds at all, and unless the good people of the city come to our aid, we will be unable to meet the demands.

We suggest that each pastor appoint one of his members to act as a member of the Welfare board, and that each church arrange to pay the board a liberal amount each month for the next six months. A fixed amount per months is most satisfactory as the board knows then just how far it can go.

Yours truly,
F. P. Robinson
Chairman

McKellar's Questions.

Senator McKellar of Tenessee, in a speech delivered recently in the Senate in a discussion of the Peace Treaty and League of Nations, propounded fourteen questions to Republicans who are opposing President Wilson and the present Democratic administration, and demanded that frank and truthful answers be made to each. The questions follow:

1. During whose administration has the American farmer received the greatest returns for his toil?
2. During whose administration has the American laborer had his fullest dinner pail and received his greatest pay?
3. During whose administration has the American business man made his largest profits?
4. During whose administration has the American banker and American stockholder in other corporations received their largest dividends?
5. During whose administration has America enjoyed her greatest prosperity?
6. During whose administration has the greatest merchant marine ever owned by America been built?
7. During whose administration has the greatest banking system ever known been created?
8. During whose administration has the wealth of America been made to bear its just proportion of taxation by the passage of income-tax laws?
9. During whose administration did America become the great financial center of the world?
10. During whose administration has the American navy reached its highest efficiency?
11. During whose administration was it found that American citizens, untrained in times of peace, could be transformed in a few short months in to better soldiers than those trained for a life time in the standing armies of Europe?
12. During whose administration did America achieve for herself and aid in achieving for allies the greatest victory of all the ages?
13. During whose administration was America changed from the greatest debtor nation to the greatest creditor nation in the world?
14. During whose administration has America made her greatest strides toward becoming the first world power and has a president of the United States become the acknowledged peer of any ruler on earth?

May we ask Republicans to be fair to President Wilson and the Democratic party? Will they frankly and truthfully answer each of these questions. We feel confident that truthful answers to each will be in favor of the president and the Democratic party.—St. Louis Republic.

STATE NEWS LETTER.

St. Louis—Most of Missouri's representatives in congress were this morning speeding homeward to rest following adjournment of the House of Representatives and the Senate.

A Washington dispatch stated that Senator Spencer left there last night for St. Louis. Senator Reed had not yet left Washington and had made no announcement of his intentions. It was believed he might join Mrs. Reed in California, where she is to spend the winter. Most of the Missouri members of the lower house were today either at home, or on their way there.

St. Louis—The Republican national convention committee appointed by Mayor Kiel to try and bring the big G. O. P. meeting to St. Louis next year was to meet this afternoon to arrange definite plans for its campaign.

The fact that Missouri is looked upon by some as a doubtful state in the coming presidential election is one reason to be pointed out to the national committee why the convention should be held here.

The last Republican convention held in St. Louis was in 1896, when McKinley was nominated. Two Democratic conventions have been held here since then—1904, when Parker was nominated, and in 1916, when Wilson was renominated.

The committee which hopes to bring next years' convention here includes John Schnell, chairman of the Republican city committee, and Jacob L. Babler, national committeeman for Missouri.

Light for the Short Days.

Farming is supposed to be a sun time business, an occupation that is carried on according to the amount of daylight available. Witness the recent altercation over the matter of daylight saving. And of course it is true that the farmer is dependent to a great extent upon daylight for the completion of his field work.

During the busy season he must be in the fields at day break and must stay there until dark if he is to get the necessary amount of work done. Before and after these field hours he must feed and water the stock and do a lot of other work at the barn and house. Both summer and winter he is pretty likely to do these chores before daylight and after dark.

In the house the situation is somewhat different. There, in summer time comparatively little light is needed, but when winter comes with its short days and long, still evenings the whole farm family becomes interested in the matter of good light.

It is a rather strange thing that with tremendous improvement along every other line of agricultural activity the provision of good modern ligthing systems should have been so long in coming. Until the last three or four years the great majority of farm homes still got along with the old kerosene lantern for barn and yard work and with the lamp for the house.

In the house these lamps were satisfactory at best. Cleaning and filling them took a lot of someone's time and unless there were a number of them used it was usually a matter of those nearest the lamp getting the light and of those farther away getting long without it. There had to be lamps to carry upstairs at bed time, too, one for each room. And these meant more cleaning and filling, considerable inconvenience and an ever present fire hazard.

In the barn it was a more serious matter. A lantern was the poorest kind of makeshift. Large open passageways and open lofts without any papered walls to reflect the light made the lantern a mere point of light, most of whose rays seemed to be lost immediately in the darkness. It was a case of holding the lantern close to the work in hand in order to be able to see at all. The lantern had to be picked up and carried from job to job, and this made a man one handed and consumed a lot of extra time. Finally in the barn the fire hazard was immeasurably greater than in the house. A lantern balanced unstably on the straw covered floor had an excellent chance of being upset. And once turned over, the buring liquid kerosene had every chance for destruction.

What a difference there is now in many country homes. Instead of the coal oil lamp lighting just the center of the living room, carried from room to room when light is needed, and cleaned and filled every day, we find handsome electric fixtures. On the living room table is a reading lamp with a shade that softens the bright rays of the electric bulbs, but allows them to reach the fartherst corners of the room. Bracket lights on the walls and a special lamp on the piano give plenty of extra light whenever it is needed.

Simpler but just as effective fixtures are in all the other rooms of the house, upstairs as well as down, in the hallways and basement and on the porches. Hall lights can be turned on from upstairs or down, and porch lights are controlled from inside the house.

In the barn the old lantern is known no more. Electric lamps are strung wherever they will do the most good.

The farm of today is enjoying just as complete electric service as the city home, because electricity on the farm affords powers as well as light. Pumps, washing achines, separators, irons and a wide variety of other light power appliances are run today with small electric motors at a great saving of both time and labor.

All this service is developed on the farm by a small electric plant consisting of a generating unit and a set of storage batteries. And so great has been the developments of these farm electric plants in the last few years that today they are much more easily taken care of than the average farm implement. They incorporate the best features of mechanical and electrical design. We hear of "valve in the head engines," which we recognize as a feature of the best automobile engine design and to this have been added "air cooled" and "kerosene burning", features toward which automobile engineers are still striving, but which the peculiar nature of the farm electric plant makes practical for its use today.

About 600 people were engaged in taking the first census of the United States. The 1920 census will require the services of 90,000.

The Census Bureau prints a special supplement for each State in the Union containing all the census figures relating to the States in question.

The first census of the United States was taken in 1790, during the administration of George Washington. It related solely to population.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 10c and 25c.

WELL KNOWN WO[illegible]

Kansas City, Mo.:—"When one of my daughters was about seventeen years of age she suffered terribly at times. She would be so ill that she would be unable to be out of bed for at least two days. This condition existed for a whole year and she became very pale and sickly. I really was afraid I would lose her. Then someone suggested Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription to me and in less than three months after she started to take it her development was complete. The 'Prescription' proved such a wonderful tonic that I had her take it for a whole year and I felt amply repaid when I looked at her rosy cheeks. I am sure that she owes her present splendid health to the 'Favorite Prescription' which she took at that time. It is the safest and most reliable tonic for girls and women that was ever placed on the market."—MRS. M. PELSOR, 2741 Myrtle Ave.

Women Who Suffer

St. Joseph, Mo.:—"I had woman's weakness and at times I would suffer with sharp pains in my right side. I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it gave me great relief. I do not suffer now and have felt much stronger since its use. It will surely give relief if taken as directed."—MRS. FRANCES TYLER, 2813 S. 23rd St.

St. Louis, Mo.:—"As a liver regulator and purgative I have found Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets to be far above the average proprietary medicine. For years I had been troubled with chronic constipation and had tried a great many different advertised remedies; then a friend suggested my trying the 'Pleasant Pellets.' I found them to be extremely mild but very effective."—MRS. GEO. BROWN, 7309 Hoover Ave.

EUGENE CRAWFORD'S EXPERIENCE IN RAISING LAMBS.

The following article is taken from the Missouri Ruralist of Nov. 20.

Unfair loss is the portion of the stock feeder this fall. Just now the chief sufferer is the man who last summer was enterprising and patriotic enough to help absorb the unusual surplus of western lambs from the drouth stricken areas of the range country. I have personal knowledges of a great many farmers in this corner of the state who bought lambs and turned them into their cornfields.

Our neighbor, Eugene Crawford, for instance, bought 352 Wyoming lambs early in August and turned them into his cornfields with a bunch of fattening hogs. They ran in the fields just about three months and were working on the last field of 75 acres when hurriedly shipped November 4 to avaid the slump in prices. As it was, they brought $14.50 a hundred weight. They had increased from 47 to 63 pounds a head. Of the original 352 head 15 had died despite the veterinarian's aid. All total the shipment brought about $600 more than it cost. Mr. Crawford has no way rightly to compute his feed costs inasmuch as the hogs still remain to be sold. But it is likely that each lamb ate more than $1.80 worth in the three months. All will admit that Mr. Crawford got less than he rightly deserved.

But that is not the worst of the suituation. In less than a week the prices have fallen $1 a hundred weight and are still sagging—with many flocks of lambs left in Missouri cornfields that are just now almost eaten clean. The owners of such flocks face a serious loss—many with borrowed money.

Method a Good One.

But these experiences cannot shake even the loser's faith in the hogging down method Again quoting Neighbor Crawford's experience, let us see what these lambs enabled him to do on his place this fall. One 10 acre field that was in rye pasture all winter and until June 1, then put to corn, raised a 30 bushel corn crop this year and this was the first field in which Crawford turned his lambs and hogs. They cleaned the crop up in efficient order and the field was plowed again and seeded to wheat by October 8. Quick work.

Moreover there are four cornfields on the Crawford farm all fenced hog tight. These were cleaned up one at a time, so it happened that while the hogh and lambs were harvesting one field Crawford was at work plowing the one they had just finished. By this arrangement he has come to Thanksgiving time with most of his corn ground plowed for next year and his corn husking finished. The stock were about half done with the last 40 acre field when removed. And the manure is already scattered and a large part of it safely turned under.

And with his boy in high school Neighbor Crawford would have had to hire help to husk his crop and even at that he would have been so well along with his work or even so well off financially as he now is—despite the unfair interference that upset his calcuations on Western lambs.

WOOL GROWERS TO TAKE WHACK AT HIGH COST LIVING

Build Own Warehouses, Operate Own Mills and Adopt Australian System.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 22.—Flockmasters of the Rock Mountain region are preparing to take a healthy yallop at the high cost of dressing. And, incidentally, they are also arranging to claim a bigger share of wool profits for the producer.

Modeling their plans partly after those adopted by the fruit growers of California and the Pacific northwest and partly after those in vogue among grain men of the Dakotas, sheep men of Wyoming, Colorado and New Mexico are perfecting a co-operative organization to build their own warehouses, operate their own woolen mills, remodel present marketing and grading systems and to do business directly with the consumer.

The plan has the backing of wool grower's associations in the three states, and has opened offices in Denver, with Lewis de R. Mowry, a local attorney, as trustee.

Under the co-operative plan, according to Mr. Mowry, the Western wool producers hope to eliminate at least four middlemen between the sheep's back and the finished product on the man's back. They propose to copy the Austrialian grading system, Mr. Mowry says, to insure the top price for the raw product and to reap a double profit on their wool—first when it is sold to their own mill, and second when it is sold to the consumer. Even with dual profits, the trusee added, the finished goods could be sold at saving of at least 40 per cent to the consumer.

Can You Beat It?

Reubin Barrett called at the News office a short time ago with an arm full of corn that any country might well be proud of, and we are not afraid to say that "Old Missouri" can hold her own with any one if this was a fair sample of Missouri corn.

It was white Silverine corn and the ears easured on an average of 10 inche It was raised on land that has been under cultivation for 47 years and only about 6 years of that time in other crops than corn. Mr. Barrett helped plow this land as one of his first jobs of plowing, when he was a mere boy.

Doesn't this prove that there isn't any wearing Missouri ground out?

Its hard to beat. —Skidmore News.

MISSOURI SORGHUM COMES INTO ITS OWN

Jefferson City, Mo., Nov. 21—That Missouri sorghum has broken into society and that its popularity has not palled since the ending of the war, is evidenced by the large demand this year even at an increased price.

The Missouri State Board of Agriculture, through its State Bureau of Marketing, is seeking the names and addresses of large producers and owners of 1919 sorghum sirup, for the purpose of furnishing this information to all people who desire to buy this safest, sanest and sweetest of long sweetening.

W. T. Hopkins, manager of the National marketing association, 202 Boston Building, Kansas City, Mo., is the latest inquirer for large supplies of Missouri country sorghum, and he desires to hear from producers or country dealers from whom his association desires to buy direct.

CLOSED WITH A BLANK RECORD

HOUSE SPENT 6 MONTHS IN ORATORY AND SENATE ON PEACE

G. O. P. "ACHIEVEMENTS"

Consisted of Only a Few of the Constructive Measures Recommended by President Wilson.

Washington, D. C. Nov. 24.—The special session of the sixty-sixth congress has closed with a practically blank record. The house of Representatives spent six months in oratory an useless investigation and the Senate utilized all of its time in devising plans to kill the Treaty of Peace with Germany and the League of Nations covenant.

Owing to the announcement of Republican Leader Mondell that no important business would be transacted during the last days of the session the bulk of his cohorts in the House took him at his word and scampered for home, first thoughtfully drawing the mileage fees that they feared might be lost to them because of the Democratic desire to have Congress achieve some real constructive legislation before convening of the special session on Dec. 1.

On passing the legislative hodge podge known as the Esch railroad bill, the House Republicans began to filter out of Washington, being at liberty to go home and secure that very brief vacation to which they are so richly entitled, as Representative Mondell gravely expressed it. Mr. Mondell added to his reputation for unconscious humor by asserting in a prepared statement anent Republican can "achievements" that "no congress in American history has more courageously, consistently and continually addressed itself to or more faithfully performed the duties and responsibilities placed upon it than the session now drawing to a close." it might be noted that Mr. Mondell did not review his "achievements" in a speech on the floor of the House but took the more prudent for of inserting them in the Congressional record, thereby risking no interruptions or corrections

Mr. Mondell reiterated his former assertions which have been disproved on several occasions—that the House Republicans had saved the American public about $940,000,000 in the first appropriation bills, which the Republicans had filibustered to death in the preceding congress and $1,685,600,000 as compared with the estimates for those bills as submitted by the Democratic Administration.

The rapid and efficient demobilization of the military forces of the nation by the Democratic Administration made possible the paring of the estimates, which, incidentally, were made under the law, prior to Oct. 15, 1918 when another year of war was expected by all the nations engaged.

Because of the unprecedented demobilization it was possible to greatly reduce the appropriations for the army and navy, and this was done at the instance of and on the recommendation of the Democratic Administration. In arriving at his totals Mr. Mondell did not scruple to juggle figures in some instances using the appropriations figures as they passed the Democratic house of the sixty five congress at other times by taking the figures as reported to the senate by the committees, the depending upon which fitted his purpose the better. The Mondell statistics also failed to tell of the appropriation bills whose totals were increased by the Republican House and Senate, or that two additional deficiency bills were passed by the Republicans, the last one carrying more than 42,000,000 as it passed the House and nearly $30,000,000 as finally enacted into law.

The Republican legislative "achievements" consists of only a few of the constructive measures recommended by President Wilson, some "popgun" tariff bills that were denounced by Senator Penrose as carelessly drawn and unscientific and held up in the senate and the Esch railroad bill that apparently stands little chance of passing the upper house in anything resembling its present form. Meanwhile Jan. 1, when the president stated he would return the railroads to their owners, is approaching and six months talk has produced no bill that stands a chance of passing congress or receiving the president's signature.

Running a Paper.

Running a newspaper is just like running a hotel, only different. When a man goes into a hotel and finds something on the table which does not suit him he does not raise hades with the landlord and tell him to stop his old hotel. Well hardly. He sets that dish to one side and wades into the many dishes that suit him. It is different with some newspaper readers. They find an article occasionally that does not suit them exactly and without stopping to think it may please hundreds of other readers make a grand stand play and tell the editor how the paper should be run and what should be put into it. But such people are becoming fewer every day.—Record, Lewiston, Mo.

If you are subject to attacks o heartburn or indigestion, it may do you good to learn that Prickly Ash Bitters is a prompt and efficient remedy. It strengthens digestion, relieves heartburn, tones up the stomach and by its agreeable cathartic effect, it empties and purifies the bowels. Try it. Price $1.25 per bottle. Maryville Drug Co.—Adv.

LEGISLATION AGAINST EXTREME DRESS BEGINS AT HOME

EDUCATION ONLY CHANGE

Noted Singer Brings Storm of Criticism for Defeating Resolution in Women's Federated Clubs

New York, Nov. 14.—Education alone will overcome the modern craze for immoral styles, "which have reached the stage where nothing in the world is left to the imagination," according to Baroness Katherine von Klenner, the noted singer.

"You can never stop these crazes by prohibiting them by law. When you start prohibition, then you are sure to have people believing they are enjoying persecution. When people are told they can't have a certain thing, that is just when they are determined they shall have it."

These words were drawn from Baroness von Klenner as a result of the storm of criticism that has swirled about her because she recently helped to defeat a resolution at a meeting of the New York Federation of Women's Clubs condemning "indecent dress."

The baroness made it plain that she is as much opposed to the present fashions as any sane woman, but she believes the time to legislate against extreme dress is in the kindergarten.

"When a child sees its own mother at home in an indecent dress, what chance does it have to formulate well-balanced ideas? Mothers should be more than particular about the modesty of their attire when around their children.

"We should not blame the shopkeepers too much, either. Take these indecent negligees and 'teddy bears' such as you see displayed in the store windows. The reason they are placed there is simply because the young people ask for them.

"Why, we are just about back to the days of Adam and Eve. The Bible tells us that 'they were naked and unashamed.' This is a day when nothing in the world is left to the imagination. Many of these 'chickens' are not well developed and they are decidedly unattractive when only half clothed.

"And then look at the fat old ladies who adopt the same styles. They remind me of Kipling's gentleman who had 'nothing in front and little less than 'arf behind.' They are neither decent looking nor attractive. It is a question of latitude and longitude, but their decisions in regard to this question are not in good taste or appropriate."

Baroness Klenner believes the hall bedroom in which many New York girls are caused to live help destroy their morals and decency. Conditions in many boarding and rooming houses, she says, cause young girls to run through halls scantily clad. These things would make any girl lose her self-respect.

"I don't know what we're coming to," concluded the baroness. "And I am no prude, either. Nice young girls in the foreign countries are not allowed to dress the way an American girl does. They would consider it not quite so common as 'ordinaire' and low."

Walking Under Difficulties.

"Believe me, I suffered from stomach and bowel trouble right. This weakened me so that I could scarcely walk. I could do no work. This was my condition when I started taking Mayr's Wonderful Remedy on the advice of a friend. Now I am working every day and feel better than I ever did in my life. It is the only medicine that ever touched me." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Maryville Pharmacy and druggists everywhere. ADV.

FURNISH CHICKENS WITH COMFORTABLE SURROUNDINGS

Nothing is better for growing chicks than a liberal supply of sour milk. If it can be obtained, it always should be kept before them in an open dish or pan where they can eat and drink it freely. Where sour milk is fed, the amount of beef scrap in the dry mash may be reduced one-half.

Plenty of fresh, clean water is absolutely necessary for all growing chicks. In hot weather, it should be given twice daily and put into fountains or dishes and placed in the shade so as to keep as cool as possible. Clean the water dish thoroughly each day before filling.

An abundance of free range with plenty of shade is necessary if chicks are to grow rapidly and develop into vigorous fowls. Growing chicks that have free range obtain quantities of green feed, bugs, worms, and other things, therefore requiring less grain, and they are also less liable to sickness or disease. Give your chicks free range whenever possible.

CAMEL Cigarettes meet your taste in many new and unusual ways. You quickly become fond of them—they are so refreshing and cool and fragrant.

You see, Camels are an expert blend of choice Turkish and choice Domestic tobaccos which guarantees the most delightful cigarette qualities that have ever been put into a cigarette. Your test will prove that you prefer the expert Camel blend to either kind of tobacco smoked straight.

Camels blend not only frees the cigarettes from any unpleasant cigaretty aftertaste or any unpleasant cigaretty odor but it assures that remarkable mellow-mild-body! And, you'll be interested to know that no matter how liberally you smoke Camels they will not tire your taste!

Camels are a cigarette revelation! Prove that yourself! We suggest right here that you compare Camels with any cigarettes in the world at any price for quality and for satisfaction!

Camels are sold everywhere in scientifically sealed packages of 20 cigarettes or ten packages (200 cigarettes) in a glassine-paper-covered carton. We strongly recommend this carton for the home or office supply or when you travel.

FARMERS TRUST COMPANY

A Pair of Shoes

The other day a farmer came to town with a small calfskin. "It'll buy us shoes and stockings at least," said he. But it didn't! It wouldn't even pay for a pair of shoes for his small boy! Yet some folks blame the farmer for the high cost of shoes and things!

The COUNTRY GENTLEMAN

is trying to beat it into the heads of some of our green city economists that the farmer isn't getting any more than a fair return—if he gets that.

He is a capitalist—an employer of labor—but without enough organization to control his markets. When labor cuts hours—and at the same time production—the farmer suffers because he produces the raw materialsofmanufacture. And when labor boosts wages—and prices—the farmer suffers by having to pay more for factory goods. The one big voice that is speaking constantly for the farmer these days is THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN. Are you reading it? If you're "from Missouri" and want to be shown—let me show you. For 52 issues of this great weekly you pay me only $1—yet they save you $100.

Did you ever stop to think of the advantage of getting your shoes at a store that is exclusively a shoe store?

The general advantage is this, that the dealer devotes his whole attention to the subject of shoes, makes a study of them, and has a larger, more varied and more excellent stock than the department of general store—a stock which is more likely to have exactly what a customer wants.

We have just such a large, varied and excellent stock, in which there is precise satisfaction for every customer.
